TO APPEAL FROM DECISION

Relatives of Miss Farmer
Want Guardianship Petition Taken to Superior Court.

County Solicitor Ernest L. Caplin
counsel for the blood relatives of Miss Sarah J. Farmer, founder of Green Acres at Elliot, Me., stated today that he would appeal from the decision of Judge of Probate Louis G.
Hoyt, who this week denied a petition to have George E. Hammond of Elliot, appointed guardian of Miss Farmer in New Hampshire and to have her adjudged insane. Attorney Caplin wants the matter referred to the superior court.

Miss Farmer has been adjudged sane by three positions and it is believed there will now be a lengthy legal battle over the pillion.

HE SAVES THE LIFE OF A CHILD

Act of Ernest H. Spinney on Market Street Puts Him in the Class of Heroes

The timely work of Ernest H.
Spinney on Market street this forenoon, not only prevented a bad ending of a runaway horse and sleigh, but no doubt saved the life of a child who was alone in the seat when the horse took fright. The animal, running at a wild pace headed for Market Square with the child crying at the top of its voice with fear. Several attempts to stop the animal but failed.

He was getting on more speed every second. When near the corner of Hanover street, Spinney took a desperate chance to save the child, realizing that if the sleigh got down in the car tracks it meant death to the young one. He dashed out in the highway and succeeded in grabbing some part of the harness. Jumping on the shaft he climbed over the dasher to the seat where he put the child in the bottom of the sleigh and then took the reins. He soon checked the wild flight of the horse and was warmly commended by a number of people who witnessed his bravery. The sig. belonged to a grocery firm in Kittery.

SPOKE AT KEENE.

State Superintendent Morris-
son Talked to Teachers.

Henry C. Morrison, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Harry A. Brown, Deputy State Superintendent, and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Johnson were among the speakers at the teachers' institute held in Keene on Friday, in connection with the meeting of the Cheshire County Teachers' Association.

Y., has begun his duties at Fort Constitution, succeeding Captain Glasgow who was transferred.

sale at Montgomery's.

WILL DETERMINE FOR HIMSELF

Statement of Senator Gallin-ger Relative to His Retirement or Re-election.

In regard to his retirement or re-election Senator Gallinger has the following to say in special correspondence to the Concord Monitor:
"I have not authorized the Washington correspondent of the Manchester Union to speak for me as to whether or not I shall be a candidate for re-election. That matter I will determine for myself at the proper time. Certainly I shall not be deterred from entering that contest either by any conference that the Democrats may hold, or any interference on the part of the President of the United States, who it seems, is going to select the candidates for the senate. In these New England states where elections are to be held next November, I will take the opportunity to state that all the information that comes to me from New Hampshire, save of it from Democratic sources, clearly indicates that I can readily win a re-election if I conclude to be a candidate.

Senator Gallinger further stated that he absolutely knows that Senator Brundage of Connecticut will be a candidate for re-election, and beyond a question will be successful.
The same is true of Senator Willingham of Vermont "whose reputation and fidelity to his public duties will not be lost sight of by the thinking people of the state." He further announced that it "seems rather odd to have the Manchester Union engaged in the work of attempting to turn New England over in the Democratic party, an enterprise that the people of the state will not fail to rebuke when opportunity offers."

FIVE BURIED BY SLIDING SNOW

One Girl Is Instantly Killed
When Ice Falls From New Haven Roof.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 27.—A great mass of ice and snow thawed by today's mild weather slid from the roof of the New Haven Gas Light company's plant in East street, late today and buried five persons under its weight, killing one girl instantly, injuring another so seriously that she may die and causing severe injuries to the other three.

Mary Rice, aged 10, was killed; Lena San Juan, aged 10, is in a local hospital, and Andrew de Lucia, an employee of the company has severe bruises and cuts. John Secc, another employee, and a small girl suffered minor injuries and were taken to their homes.

All five were inside of the company's yard when the accident occured. The three girls were playing near the ash heaps.

MAY COME BACK.

Tom Leckey Has a Line on Blue Cloud, the Missing
Wooden Indian.

Now that the police have produced some clever detective work in locating the bust of Levi Woodbury, which mysteriously disappeared from City Hall, they would add to their laurels in locating Thomas Leckey's wooden Indian. Tommy thought at one time that "Blue Cloud" might have been eaten by the Woodbury statue but this idea was dispersed when he got information that a party in the South has been collecting a variety of wooden Indians formerly used to advertise. Tommy does not say that "Blue Cloud" is among the collection, but he intends to have a photograph of the lot, and after taking a slant at the twenty-seven, he will quickly decide whether or not he has any claim on one of the queer collection of souvenirs.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

About twenty-five friends of Wilfred A. Noy gave him a surprise party at his home on Middle street Thursday evening in honor of his 14th birthday.

The affair had been so carefully planned that the young host was completely surprised but quickly recovered and made all feel at home.

During the evening Misses Frances Parker and Mignon Green served fruit punch, while games and music made the time pass in a pleasant manner all too quickly.

MORE ABOUT BRIDGE PROJECT

"Transporter Bridge" is a French Invention and the First Structure
Was Built at Rouen Over the Seine

The Herald has been deluged with inquiries, since it published the new and novel plan for bridging the 198-metre river. These inquiries have come from afar as well as those locally interested. In answer to a few of the more direct questions, we cheerfully give such further knowledge as up to this date we have been able to obtain in the subject.

The "Transporter Bridge" was a structure not known to the engineering world until this twentieth century was some years old, and, as appears, up to the time of our publication of a cut, and a description thereof, never to have been published, much less materialized on this side of the Atlantic.

The novel structure is the invention of a French engineer, and its conception is reported to have sprung from the successful heights and strength attained in the great steel structures that now obtain in the trussed frame work of modern skyscraper buildings, some of them to a height fast approaching the thousand feet mark.

The first "Transporter Bridge" was constructed at Rouen, a city of France across the famous river Seine, about 41 miles from its mouth, which even at this inland point is much wider than the Piscataqua, and connects the beautiful Gothic-built city proper, with its suburbs of St. Sever across the river.

Rouen is one of the oldest and most conservative cities of France, of more than 100,000 inhabitants, and is visited by thousands of tourists annually from all over the world; its public and private buildings of centuries long past, especially Rouen Cathedral, is famous the world over for its matchless Gothic architecture, but its modern "Transporter Bridge" is claimed to be second to nothing, or all, in attractiveness and interest to its ever increasing stream, of especially auto travelers.

The second and last "Transporter Bridge" yet opened to public travel is situated in the commercial city of Newport, England, or more properly Wales; and spans a tributary of the upper Bristol channel or the mouth of the Severn river.

The city of Newport is famous for its wonderful growth during the past few decades, and its commercial beauty and extent; its granite constructed dockage, covers, combined, (through every renewed waters, of more than eighty acres, and is of some interest locally, as being the city from whence came all the iron rolls that connected Portsmouth with Concord in 1849, and the first ship load of which was landed at the foot of Deer street, in our city in May of that year.

The cut of the bridge, reproduced in The Herald was made from a photograph of the Newport, England, Transporter Bridge obtained by a native of Portsmouth and taken upon the day of its opening to public travel, and the surroundings on both sides, and beyond of the foreign river, are so nearly an exact counterpart of our own; especially when viewed from a point on our river three or four hundred feet east of the Rockingham Power plant, as to appear almost identical.

The fields of all the 80,000 inhabitants of Newport ever since the opening of her wonderful, and even majestic "Transporter Bridge", is second only in both pride and financial results to her magnificent commercial docks; the financial results accruing directly, from her sightseeing, though temporary touring un-doubt in their resistless desire to view so great and wonderful, yet smooth and perfect a structure.

We are assured by tourists of mechanical expert ability that have personally viewed the imposing Newport bridge that it has more than met every claim, even suggested by its most earnest advocates, and that its cost has proved but a tithe of its value already returned to the city.

Official records record the bridge as "being a historic mark in the Marine, Harbor and Dock, and Municipal development of Newport," that, "the "Transporter Bridge" was selected after scores of proposals for tunnel-ing, and all forms of bridging had been carefully and deliberately considered," and "that its operation had resulted in conclusively showing that no mistake had been made."

The car or platform suspended from a traveling frame above is 33x40 feet, and divided for electric cars, automobiles, and foot passengers, and the time for crossing is but one minute.

During the first month of its opening over 88,000 people, besides every form of vehicle and other freight was transported, not over, but under this new and symmetrical and most useful result of man's modern skill and workmanship.

ALMOST NEW BRIDGE.

Four Hundred Piles Put in the York Harbor Structure.

The York Harbor railroad bridge will be practically a new structure when the Boston & Maine carpenters erect complete the work there. Up to date 400 new piling have been driven.

PLANNING FOR BIG CONVENTION

Everybody Interested in Good Roads Should Attend.

New Hampshire will have reason to be proud of the road convention which is scheduled here for the 10th and 20th of March. Already the list of exhibitors has exceeded space available for exhibition and new quarters have had to be procured. In the past the road convention conducted by the state have been managed affairs, but contractors and manufacturing concerns, realizing the advertising value, and the ability to reach the public through their conventions have at last come to the conclusion that it is best to send all their available products for the exhibition.

This convention will give the roadbuilders of New Hampshire an opportunity to see the largest display of road machinery and equipment that will be shown anywhere outside of the largest conventions conducted for the different road builders' associations. The heads of departments in the other states in New England are taking a most decided interest in the convention here in New Hampshire, realizing that this convention will be an innovation by the New England states.

Everyone interested in good roads in New Hampshire should consider it a duty to attend this convention.

MAY NOW CLAIM THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Wenehasa Defeat Manchester High in Fast Basketball Game--Visitors Simply Outclassed--School Games.

The Wenehasa basketball team defeated the Manchester high school team, at the Y M C A gymnasium on Friday evening and in decisive style, the final score being 42 to 21.

As Manchester high laid claim to the state championship, the local boys are now justified in laying claim to the title and furthermore, are willing to defend it against all comers.

The Wenehasa team is composed of high school scholars, every one being of good standing in school, but they do not play under the head of the high school, owing to the fact that a school team has not been allowed. Up to the game last evening they have met and defeated the best teams in this state. Among them the freshman team from the New Hampshire College, and they also defeated Dummer Academy of Bedford, Mass., who claimed the Massachusetts title.

In the game last evening the local boys got the jump on the Manchester team and for the first period simply played them off their feet. They were fast in floor work and guessing and their signals worked to perfection, and at the end of the first period they had the game practically won. Sanderson, the lanky center, throwing seven goals while Brackett and Badger added three more, and this was a clean lead of seven goals. The second period was fast but neither team were able to score to any extent. The third period was hard fought and at times it was strenuous enough for anybody. Young Butler went into the game and his speedy little forward soon got away and threw a basket. This rather proved his much larger opponent and he made a swing for the ball, and for a time it looked squally. The Manchester man was ruled off the floor and the game finished. The game was rough in spots, and there were quite a few fouls called.

There were about a hundred spectators present, about all that could be accommodated in the limited space in the galleries. The Wenehasa team will next Friday meet the Salem high and hope to annex the Massachusetts title as well as that of New Hampshire. Portland high will also be played but in the Maine city. The score:

PRACTICAL INTENSIVE GARDEN PLANS.

Systems Which Bring Good Results, James B. Morman.

By intensive culture a small holder makes the best use of his land, increasing the surface area, while companion cropping is the most practical feature of intensive gardening. The following crop systems have given good results:

Two Crops—Irish and sweet potatoes can be grown together. Plant early as possible a late variety of potato in rows three feet apart; put the seed pieces eighteen or twenty inches apart in rows. After the potatoes have been killed the last time, set or sweet potato slips in ridges between Irish potato plants, and when frost has killed the sweet potato vines both crops can be dug together. As sweet potatoes take long to mature best results are secured with a late variety of Irish potato as companion crop.

Another two crop combination is sweet corn and cauliflower, the latter growing slowly and liking shade, the former growing rapidly in hot, moist weather, and in warm climates cauliflower shades the corn. Cauliflower plants should be started early in boxes of rich soil; the sweet corn should be sown in hills three feet each way, and when the cauliflower plants are large enough transplant between rows of sweet corn in deep holes two or three feet apart and with both crops plant but a few rows at a time to provide a long cropping season, so cauliflower will follow corn for table use, being a late maturing crop.

A Three Crop Combination.

Three Crops—As soon as the land can be worked in spring, plant to early potatoes. When killed the last time, plant sweet corn between the rows three feet apart, with occasional hills of winter squash. These two crops get a good start before potatoes mature. Dig potatoes when the tops are dead, so the digging may serve to cultivate the growing corn and squash. Broadcast with turnip seed, top dress with farm or chicken manure and thoroughly rake seed and fertilizer into soil. Sweet corn, winter squash and turnips are three good companion crops for fall use.

Another satisfactory combination after early potatoes is to plant sweet corn and winter squash, as previously described, with cauliflower or winter cabbage between the hills of corn. After potatoes are dug, plant to cowpeas, which gives three crops for table use, with cowpeas for soil improvement because of the nitrogen contained in the roots.

FENCING AND POSTS

Rail and Board Fences Have Had Their Day.
P. K. Edwards.

Pigs and the board fence were the bane of our existence as boys, for no matter how securely we fastened the old boards the pigs would get out just when we were starting for the swimming hole or going berrying. Now concrete posts and wire fencing have become substitutes for the boards and rails and once set up are fortunately there to stay.

"But wire fencing is so expensive!" the reader will say. The reply to that is, "If you do not consider the lasting qualities of good heavy galvanized wire and the indestructibility of concrete posts." The writer remembers building a fifty-five inch woven wire fence around his garden some nineteen years ago, using chestnut posts set twenty feet apart. This fence is still standing and is to all appearances in excellent condition. Regarding the spacing of the posts around this garden, which bordered the highway and required 400 feet of fencing, if we had used a board fence with eight foot post spacing thirty more posts would have been required, and as these cost even in those days 15 cents each, a saving of $4.50 was effected. In this particular case the posts being of chestnut (eight feet long) the ends were painted with a creosote preparation and set three feet in the ground. The gate, corner and end posts were nine feet, set four feet in the ground and to the butts of each of these posts were spiked two four-foot strips of heavy plank, one near the bottom, the other on the opposite side three feet higher up. These acted as anchors, preventing the posts from being loosened when the wire was tightened. On top of these anchors large stones were laid before the earth was replaced.

In using cement posts, which are easily made at home, be sure to have the butts of the corner and end posts extra heavy and then no anchors are needed; also provide for two bolt holes in each post, one near the top, the other near the bottom, to be used for the bolts which hold the wooden strip to which the wire is stapled. In setting some 800 feet of poultry fencing this past year the writer used modern heavy woven wire, with six foot cement posts set three feet in the ground. To these short posts were bolted five foot wooden strips 3 by 4 inches, to which the wire was stapled. Many of the cement posts in this case had to have extra large butts on account of the hollows in the ground, which had a tendency to pull up the posts.

Today when the price of labor is so high, the stout, easily built wire fence is an economical investment.

THE PREVENTION OF POULTRY DISEASES

John R. Bowie

Poultry are liable to be affected by a number of diseases and may also be infected by various kinds of parasites which live on the surface of the body and also in the crop, stomach or intestines, taking the nourishment which should be used to put on flesh or produce eggs and also cause irritation and inflammation. The contagious diseases produced by animal and vegetable germs are the most important; the poultryman has to consider in trying to keep his birds healthy. These germs and the parasites should be kept out preferably by preventive measures, although there are cases where medicines may be advantageously given. As a rule, however, it is better to kill sick fowls, the cost of treatment being greater than the value of the birds. Moreover, the spread of contagious diseases is also there.

Starting Right.

To start right, then, set eggs from a flock which has shown no indications of contagious disease for at least a year; avoid putting these eggs in packing such as chaff etc., which may be musty or moldy; wipe them with a cloth wet in 70 to 80 per cent alcohol and hatch them in a thoroughly cleansed incubator. The young chicks should then be free from parasites and injurious germs of all kinds, and to keep them so put them in clean brooders and allow them to run only upon ground which has not been used for fowls for several years.

Should hens be used for hatching the chicks pick out those known to be healthy and dust well with lime powder before setting. Their nests should be perfectly clean, and there should be a box of road dust or sifted hard coal ashes under cover where they can dust themselves. When the young chicks are taken from the nest examine carefully for lice. These parasites accumulate under the throat and on the top and back of the head, and if any are found rub a little sweet oil pure lard or vasoline with the finger over the parts where the lice are.

By starting thus a flock may be raised practically free from disease germs and parasites, from developing and increasing to a dangerous extent, the hens must be kept clean, the drinking fountains and feed troughs washed every day or two with boiling water and if any mites are found on the birds or in their houses, the roosts and adjoining parts of the walls should be sprayed with a good disinfectant used in connection with freshly slaked lime.

FERTILIZERS AND GREEN MANURE CROPS.

Cheap Insurance Against Poor Crops, C. A. Moores.

Tennessee Experiment Station

As an all around means of soil improvement no other material equals manure. Frequently, however, people want to know what to use to supplement insufficient supply of manure. If nothing is known about the special needs of the soil use a high grade complete fertilizer, such as truck growers make. One thousand or 1,500 pounds per acre is not too much, and this amount may be applied broadcast and mixed throughout the soil. However, a part may be saved for the row or in the hill for crops like potatoes, tomatoes, etc.

But will even 1,500 pounds per acre of high grade complete fertilizer build up the fertility of soil? The answer is quite simple. Fifteen hundred pounds of fertilizer contain several times the phosphoric acid removed by a heavy crop of vegetables, and the unused portion will remain in soil for the benefit of succeeding crops. The supply of potash need not give concern, but the weakness of the fertilizer is the low content of the high priced element, nitrogen.

Use Care in Selection.

A comparison of the proportions of plant food elements present in fertilizers with those found in crops will make this point clear. Take corn, for example. In mature plants for every ten pounds of phosphoric acid are found twenty-three pounds of potash and thirty-two pounds of nitrogen, but in a common brand of truck fertilizer for every ten pounds of phosphoric acid are four pounds of potash and only three and one-third pounds of nitrogen. Thus 1,500 pounds of such fertilizer does not contain as much nitrogen as is required in the production of a forty bushel corn crop and less than one-third the amount removed by a heavy crop of cabbage. In fact, all of the nitrogen demanded by common farm and garden crops cannot be profitably supplied by commercial fertilizers. To build up soil in nitrogen recourse must be had to the growing for manure purposes of leguminous plants, such as peas, beans, vetches, especially clovers all of which gather nitrogen from air. A complete fertilizer for the legumes need contain only phosphoric acid and potash, but the sweetening of soil by an occasional liming will be of benefit to them and to the garden crops. Clover should be sown freely in mid-summer wherever possible. Finally, as a result of the applications of manure, fertilizers, lime and the growing of legumes, fertility of soil is built up.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Brewed Tea, or as the Germans call it, "Hamburger Brunt Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure a grip, as it opens the pores, relieves congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

The Becker Case.

The annulment of the conviction of Lieutenant Charles Becker of the New York police force, who has been under sentence of death for some time for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, a New York gambler, with the granting of a new trial to the condemned man, reopens a famous murder case, which bids fair to end as a fizzle and a farce. District Attorney Whitman, who conducted the prosecution, is plainly disgusted, though he does not say so in so many words. Under the circumstances he can see no prospect of another conviction, and it is possible the case will never be tried again. It is said by those close to the district attorney that if Becker's counsel should move for a dismissal of the case Mr. Whitman would probably offer no opposition.

What does this mean? It means that the prosecuting officer feels that as good work as it is possible to do in the interest of law, order and public safety can be brought to naught through technicalities, and that if the public is satisfied with this sort of thing there is little use in standing for anything else.

The murder of Rosenthal was the most sensational in the recent history of the country. He was shot down in cold blood because it was believed he had been "squealing" on gambling and graft in New York city, and Lieutenant Becker was convicted after a hard fought trial of instigating the crime, which was committed by four other men now under sentence of death. They were gamblers and gunmen, and their convictions are not annulled. Their only hope is in executive clemency, and under the circumstances many will feel that they ought to receive it, on the ground that if the case is to end in a farce it may as well be full-fledged as to be a half-and-half affair.

All will remember the hue and cry that went up not only in New York, but all over the country, following the murder and the exposure of conditions in the metropolis which it brought to light. There was a call for justice and a cleaning up of the foul mess that had been unearthed, and the result was the conviction of Becker and his hirelings.

And now comes the latest chapter of the awful story, which will add materially to the discouragement of those who feel that the boasted protection afforded by our laws is one thing in theory and a far different thing in reality.

Theodore N. Vail tells Vermonters that they must look to agriculture, forestry and quarrying for their prosperity. That is what they have been doing for many years, and they have gathered in a very fair share of prosperity withal. Many jokes are cracked at the expense of the Green Mountain state, but its people are in need neither of sympathy nor assistance.

Senator Bankhead says the parcel post is "running riot," and that unless the brakes are applied bales of hay and bags of potatoes will soon be going through the mails. But hasn't it been pointed out that one of the missions of the parcel post is to bring producer and consumer together, and thus reduce the cost of living?

At least 50,000 women in Chicago were sufficiently interested in suffrage to vote at a primary election the other day. There were also women candidates for aldermanic positions, but not all of the women voted for them. There will be differences among the women, even after the suffrage is granted.

Wintry conditions worked their way further south than usual, even the Gulf states having snow and cold to break all records of recent years. But the break has come at last and it is not at all probable that the experiences of the last few weeks will be repeated this year.

It seems there is no rush to the municipal store in Chicago, which sells groceries to the unemployed at cost. Perhaps it is possible in Chicago, as in other cities, to obtain groceries at less than cost and have them delivered besides—under the credit system.

Relative to the stories of the inoculation of children in New York hospitals with serious diseases, the public will do well to withhold judgment until the evidence is all in. The charge is altogether too serious to be accepted without proof.

The deposits in the New Hampshire savings banks increased $5,000,000 in 1913, and the total is now $104,000,000. There is home industry and thrift in the Granite state. Such accumulations are not gathered from roadside bushes.

In the present aspect of the case about the worst character brought to light by the Rosenthal murder is Justice Goff, who presided at the trial of Lieutenant Becker.

There are only 28 days in February, but it has seemed like a very long month.

Eleanor Wilson, President's Daughter, Acts to Save Bird Life.

Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of President Woodrow Wilson, is deeply interested in bird life. She takes the leading role of Orna, the bird spirit, in a bird masque entitled "Sanctuary" whenever it is produced at society affairs. The latest performance was at the Hotel Astor in New York, when over 1,000 attended. Among the spectators was Miss Margaret Wilson, another daughter of the president. The masque is a plea for wild bird life. This picture shows Miss Eleanor Wilson in her costume as Orna.

The Observer

That this section of the country had some cold weather in February, 1817, as well as February, 1914, is shown by record taken from the family bible of Joseph H. Hart, town clerk of New Castle, N. H., who furnished the Herald with the record. The record is as follows: "On the seventeenth day of February, 1817, George Bell, Esq., and Abigail, his wife, walked on the ice 100 yards from the head of his wharf at New Castle, N. H., and there found the ice to be eighteen inches thick, it being nearly half way of the river and it continued so for five days. The coldest weather that has been experienced for a great while." From this record one would infer that the winter of 1817 was even colder than the present one, that we have all been complaining of its severity.

I was talking recently with Charles E. Hodgdon, the veteran ice man, and during the conversation learned that the first ice cutting done by his father was for the late Frank Jones, in 1861. At that time Mr. Jones was in need of three hundred tons of ice for his brewery, which was at that time in its early stage, and informed the elder Mr. Hodgdon if he would transport an ice pond, he would take that amount of ice. Accordingly a dam was built and a crop of ice harvested. This was the beginning of Mr. Hodgdon's ice business which has steadily grown and this year's ice cutting was upwards of twenty-five hundred tons of ice, the capacity of both ice houses.

Speaking of the ice question, Mr. Hodgdon says that the supply of ice that is annually harvested in this city is not near large enough to supply the demands made upon the local dealers. Of late years many more persons have made the practice of taking ice and the local dealers are often greatly taxed to supply their regular customers. Where a few years ago only one or two households had ice delivered, now nearly every family deems it a necessity.

A visitor here this week was Smith R. Treadwell, of Boston, son of the late Samuel P. Treadwell of this city, who was one of the best informed of our older residents. While here Mr. Treadwell showed the writer an old-time ballot that was used in Ward Three. On the front the ticket bears the heading "Union Ticket," while on both sides is the inscription, "The Plag of Our Union Forever." On the reverse side was an American flag printed in the national colors. The candidates to be voted on were as follows: For Governor, Edward W. Harrington; for railroad commissioner, Orsino A. J. Vaughan; for councillor, John T. G. Pismore; for senator, Henry H. Bennett; for county officers, John S. Bennett, treasurer; Charles B. Clark, register; Thomas Polson, commissioner; for representatives, Henry P. Wendell, Benjamin Odiorne, 2d; over-seer of the poor, Samuel Gookin; moderator, Ezra A. Stevens; ward clerk, Daniel F. Smith. The ballot is somewhat of a curiosity as compared with the ballot of the present day.

Old Subscriber in the York Transcript comments on the bridge question as follows:

"The agitation to free the Kittery-Portsmouth bridge of the paying of toll, recalls that it is one of the old bridges in Maine. But here in York we have one that is still older, at least it was of a pattern of the first of its kind in the country. Sewall's bridge, so called, enjoys the distinction of being the first pier bridge in America. It was designed and built by Maj. Samuel Sewall, and was 270 feet long and 27 feet wide, and rested upon 13 piers. One of the Atlantic shore railway now pass over this bridge, and during the summer this bridge is one of the points of interest which visitors are much interested in. Of course, they marvel at the continued strength and stability of the old bridge, without thinking that it is constantly being repaired and probably has been entirely rebuilt several times; although still retaining many of the original lines and designs. But Sewall's bridge has about reached its end. In a few years it will be necessary to either rebuild it entirely or replace it with a steel bridge. In either event there is no question but what the old bridge will be preserved as an antique, as the Old-Father and the Melville Garrison house have been saved."

CADILLACS GOOD IN SNOW

W. S. Weeks, proprietor of the Greenland garage received an order yesterday to send a car into the Portsmouth Hospital. Although roads are still blocked with snow, and no autos have been seen on the country roads, he accepted the order, and sent a car making the trip without trouble. At times both axles were buried in the snow, and the radiator was covered with ice half way up to the fill cap. When asked what kind of a car it was, the writer was told it was a 1910 Cadillac, which has covered 14,000 miles this season with practically no expense for repairs.

Although Mr. Weeks has several other cars in his garage, including one 50hp., when asked why he selected the Cadillac he replied that a Cadillac never failed him yet, regardless of the condition of the roads.

VISITED RYE GRANGE.

State Lecturer Barnes Witnesses the Initiation of Five New Members.

State Lecturer Barnes of the New Hampshire State Grange visited Rye Grange, No. 223, Patrons of Husbandry at their meeting at Rye Town Hall on Friday evening. The initiation of five new members took place and an excellent literary program was presented.

Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served by sisters Myr F. Locke, Lillian Goss, Nellie R. Philbrick and Kate M. Varrell. Dancing followed and was enjoyed until a late hour.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

While the outstanding event of the forthcoming week at the Boston Opera House will be the first appearance for the season of Nellie Melba, the rest of the performances scheduled for the week will be of the highest order, and will yield in interest only to Miss Melba's impersonation of Mimì.

The week will begin with a concert at the Opera House on the evening of Sunday, March 1. Marie Gay will be the principal soloist, and with her will appear Miss Scotney, and MM. Grand and Mardones, and Mr. Horace Britt, cellist.

"Don Giovanni" will be the first opera of the week, beginning at 7.30 on Monday evening. This performance will be directed by Felix Weingartner, and sung by the same splendid cast, with one exception, as that of the season's premiere of the Mozart opera. Instead of Miss Teyte, Alice Nielsen will sing the role of Zerlina, one of her most famous and most widely-admired impersonations. Emmy Destinn will again be the Donna Anna, and Miss Amsden, the Donna Elvira. Vanni Marcoux will be the over-gallant Don, and Jose Mardones the commander. The cast is completed by Paolo Lullikar as Leporello, Vincenzo Tanlongo as Ottavio, and Mr. Tavecchia as Masetto.

"Romeo et Juliette" will be given its first performance by the Boston Opera Company on Wednesday evening, March 4, at 7.45, with Mr. Strony conducting. The title roles will be taken by Alice Nielsen and Lucien Murnroe, names which in themselves are sufficient warrant that Gounod's music will receive worthy and satisfying interpretation. Henri Danges will be the Mercutio, and Janni Marcoux the Friar Laurence. This opera is comparatively little known in Boston, as it has never been given in the Boston Opera House, and indeed has not been sung here for nearly ten years. Gounod is known to most people by his one work, "Faust," and many will welcome the opportunity of acquainting themselves with another side of the great Frenchman's genius.

On Friday evening, "Die Meistersinger" will be repeated, for the first time under the baton of Felix Weingartner. The cast will be that of the last performance of the Wagner work, including Leon Laflitte as Walther, Paolo Lullikar as Hans Sachs, Robert Leonhardt as Beckmesser, and Elizabeth Amsden as Eva; with, however, one new figure, Taddeo Wronski as Pogner. The opportunity to hear this opera in so complete and balanced a production as this, and under the direction of one of the most distinguished conductors of the world comes but rarely, and a large number of people should avail themselves of it.

At the Saturday matinee, "La Boheme" will be repeated, serving as the vehicle to re-introduce Nellie Melba. The great and beloved prima donna will sing Mimì, Mme. Beriza will be the Musetta, Mr. Laflitte the Rodolfo, Mr. Danges the Marcello, Mr. Puletti the Schunard, and Mr. Mardones the Colline. Mr. Moranzoni will conduct this performance, which promises to be a memorable one.

On Saturday evening, the popular "Jewels of the Madonna" will be given at the regular scale of halved prices. Mr. Zenatello will appear as Genaro for the first time this season, likewise Mme. Gay as Carmela, Miss Amsden will be the Mallella, and Mr. Blanchard the Raffaele, and the rest of the cast will draw upon practically the entire Italian scenery of the company. This Wolf-Ferrari opera is one of the most brilliant and colorful of modern works, and has attained tremendous success wherever it has been sung. Mr. Moranzoni will direct this performance.

The bill for the evening of Saturday.

WORTH KNOWING.

Granite is the lowest rock in the earth's crust. It is the bed rock of the world. It shows no evidence of animal or vegetable life. It is from two to ten times as thick as the united thicknesses of all other rocks. It is the parent rock from which all the other rocks have been either directly or indirectly derived.

It is true that it does not contain lime, while limestones do contain that substance, but it furnishes the foundation for animal growth, and animal growth brings lime into existence. It is claimed by scientists that all the lime in the world has, at some time, no doubt, been a portion of many different animals, and possibly of human beings also.

CURRENT OPINION

Proposed to "Shut Out Il-literate Because They Are Immigrants."

I think that the literacy test for immigrants is a sham and a fraud, because it is not what it purports to be. Its object is not to shut out immigrants because they are illiterate. Illiteracy is a defect which can be remedied. Its object really is to shut out illiterates because they are immigrants. And if the advocates of this measure knew any other way by which they could shut out an equal number of immigrants they would not hesitate to resort to it.

The arguments against this proposal have been so well stated by President Cleveland, President Taft, Secretary Nagel and President Wilson that no further argument upon this subject should be necessary. It is President Wilson who said:

"I think that this country can afford to use and ought to give opportunity to every man and woman of sound morals, sound mind and sound body who comes in good faith to spend his or her energies in our life, and I should certainly be inclined, so far as I am concerned, to scrutinize very jealously any restrictions that would limit that principle in practice."—Cyrus L. Sutzberger, New York Philanthropist.

Feb. 28, has been changed. Instead of "Samson et Dalila," as announced, "La Traviata" will be given, with Miss Scotney and Mr. Tanlongo in the leading roles.

THE CREW DID NOT LIKE COLD WEATHER

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—Terrified at the sight of snow and ice encountered by the German steamship Ockenfels, off the Newfoundland banks, the crew of 58 lascars deserted their posts, and for four days refused to leave the engine room. Assisted only by the mess boys and cooks, the officers of the ship were obliged to do all the seamen's work, as well as navigate the vessel, on the voyage to this port.

The cold was so intense, according to the ship's officers, that waves froze into solid ice almost as soon as they broke over the rails of the vessel. The steamship arrived "here yesterday from Narvik, Sweden with a cargo of iron ore.

KITTERY

Breezy Items From the Village Across the River

The "colored musicale" given last evening at Grange hall under the auspices of the Kittery Grange, was a decided success from every standpoint, the attendance being exceptionally good, and the patronage of the tables liberal. The program consisted of southern melodies by the colored chorus and quartette, which were very well rendered, and solos by Mr. Stanley Segee which were heartily enjoyed and deserving of especial mention. The program as given follows:

"Old Black Joe".....Quartet
"Darling, Nelly Gray".....Solo
"My Old Kentucky Home".....Chorus
Vocal Solo.....Mr. Segee
Mrs. Spinnery, accompanist.
Reading.....Miss Viola Barker
"Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground".....Quartet
"Dixie Land".....Chorus
Piano Duet.....Misses Josephine Moulton and Dorothy Williams.
"Old Folks at Home".....Male Quartet
Vocal Solo.....Mr. Segee
"Wearing of the Green".....Mrs. Harry Wyman
Miss Marion Brackett, Grange pianist, was accompanist for the evening. The tables were in charge of the following ladies:

Aprons—Mrs. Helen Johnson, Mrs. Alfred Hayes, Mrs. George Wilson, Home made, candy—Mrs. Aaron

Brackett, Misses Ethel Moore and Marion Brackett.
Cake and ice cream—Mrs. Carroll Burnham, Mrs. Raymond Packard, Miss Almendra McIntire.
Also much credit should be given to Mrs. John H. Westworth, the lecturer of the Grange, who has worked untiringly for the success of the affair. A substantial sum was realized.

Word was telephoned here last night of the death in Dover about 6 o'clock of Mr. George W. Damon, one of our best known citizens, who was passing the winter with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Cutler. Mr. Damon for many years has lived in Kittery, coming here soon after the close of the rebellion, and was employed by the Boston & Maine railroad at the Kittery Junction depot, and attended to the opening and closing of the draw in the bridge, where he received injuries several years ago so badly that he was obliged to give up work and has been in failing health ever since. Mr. Damon married Miss Annie Keane of Kittery, who died some two years ago, and four children resulted from this union, two sons and two daughters, who survive: Mr. George Damon of Melrose, Mass.; Asher Damon of Kittery; Mrs. Henry Hobbs of Haverhill; and Mrs. Charles Cutler of Dover. He was a veteran of the civil war and a member of Riverside Lodge of Odd Fellows. Mr. Damon will be greatly missed by all his neighbors and friends for whom he always had a cheerful word, and the town has lost a good citizen.

An "experience" social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Second Methodist church was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Martin Rounds of Rogers road, about 25 being present. Many unique ways were taken by the members of the Aid to earn their dollar, and nearly all told their "experiences" in rhyme. A feature of the evening was the presenting of a testimonial gift to Mrs. Rounds, by her co-workers, for her untiring work as president of the society. Below is given a poem from the pen of Miss Eleanor Lovell:

There's a dear old fashioned village
That lies closely to the sea,
Which you'll find upon the map
To be known as Kittery.

"This a quiet little village,"
If you're looking for a rest;
Say, just go with me this evening
And I'll entertain my best.

There are people that reside here,
Some still young and some are old;
That when you've come to know them,
They are worth their weight in gold.

The church that I belong to
Has a "Ladies' Aid" that counts;
There's not an obstacle arises
That they won't attempt to mount.

At the President's they're meeting—
Let me see, why it's tonight!
So please put on your bonnet
And I'll take you for a hike.

The object of this meeting
Was to help a debt to pay;
Each was to earn a dollar
In the most efficient way.

Oh, I know to you they're strangers,
But then you need not care;
They will bid you hearty welcome
And will set for you a chair.

Just to show you how folks hustle
When they think it worth the while,
I'll tell you how they earned it
In my own peculiar style.

Now that woman sitting yonder,
When she speaks, well it sounds
As though we must take notice;
That's our President, Martha Rounds.

Over there sits Mrs. Ritchie,
She's such a dear old soul;
Earned her dollar selling doughnuts,
Charging nothing for the hole.

There's the Misses Paul and Fife,
What they did you'd never dream;
Got old iron, paper, rubbers,
Went and sold them, quite a scheme.

Mrs. Milliken caught the fever,
She went out and did her best,
Gathered all she could and sold them,
Brought her dollar with the rest.

Mrs. Baker, Hulteen, Jackson,
Mrs. Robbins, Jones and Hall,
Mrs. Brann, Sweet and Pinkham,
Mrs. Marshall, Clough, and all—

Each united in their efforts
To make this a great success;
Judging by the way they're coming,
They'll succeed in it, I guess.

Mrs. Smart thought she'd make candy,
Miss Arvilla Shaw did too,
Then they sold it to the people,
Rather risky I tell you.

Mrs. Hayes, the wife of Pastor,
She was busy, and I learn
If you would like some cake or cookies
Call on her, or Sister Hearn.

Now there may be several ladies
Should be mentioned on this list,
If so please don't feel offended
Just perchance your name I've missed.

Yes, perhaps we should be going,
But I'm sure we must agree,
That the ladies of this Circle
Keep as busy as the bee.

Did you say I had not told you
What it was I had to sell?
Well, for goodness' sake forgive me,
It was chickens in their shell.

Mrs. Thomas Ritchie also gave the following rhyme:

Our church has a debt that must be paid;
Who will help out? Why, the Ladies' Aid.
Every lady must earn her dollar,
Be she dressmaker, cook or scholar.

Says I to myself: "Lassetta," says I,
"You are not a good cook, but some doughnuts you can fry;
You can fry doughnuts that can be had,
But good enough for your friends to eat."

Then I fried and fried a hundred or more,
And sold every one to my friends galore;
Then says I: "You're not a good cook or scholar,
But one hundred doughnuts has made my dollar."

The dance by the senior class of Trapp Academy at Wentworth hall was largely attended. Excellent music was furnished by Colton and Hobbs, ice cream and cake were served at intermission.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath—Candy Cathartic

Get a ten cent box now. Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

This is important. Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A ten cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle, cleansing too.

Royal is economical, because it possesses more leavening power and goes further. Royal saves also, because it always makes fine, light, sweet food, all digestible; never wastes good flour, butter and eggs.

More important still is the saving in health. Royal Baking Powder adds anti-dyspeptic qualities to the food.

RESCUE CREW OF ABANDONED SHIP

Schooner Unity Adrift Two Days Before Men Take to Boats.

New York, Feb. 27—The British schooner Unity, Perth Amboy, N. J., for Halifax, and laden was abandoned at sea on February 19. Captain MacLennan and his crew of five men were rescued by the British steamer Manchester Imperator, from St. John, N. H., for Manchester. They arrived late today on the Australian steamer Lucha from the Mediterranean, to which they had been transferred at sea. After leaving Long Island the Unity encountered a succession of heavy gales. Her boat was swept overboard on February 19th, the rudder was carried away and she became unmanageable. February 25th the Manchester Imperator overtook the crippled Unity and rescued all hands. The shipwrecked crew asked to be transferred to the first west bound steamer encountered. Four days later the Lucha was sighted and her lifeboat safely transferred them to the ship.

The rescued men are Captain William MacLennan, St. John, N. H.; Richard N. Hassell, mate; Arthur S. Day, steward, and Oscar Anderson, Harry Burns and Joseph Donetti, seamen.

PRESIDENT WILSON IN A CORNER IN MEXICAN TANGLE

Administration Knows This and is Seeking a Way Out--Rebels Killing Foreigners the Cause.

Washington, Feb. 27.—That the Wilson Administration is in a corner over the Mexican situation and is gravely concerned over the position cannot be concealed. President Wilson has clutched at every shred of information that could be construed as exonerating him in the lamentable Benton case and the Administration was greatly relieved by the early announcement today, ten days after the killing, that the rebel general would permit two representatives of the United States Government, two of the 47,000 two Americans and the relatives of the dead, to visit the rebels, outside the White House, and even in diplomatic circles it has been believed that Benton was shot in the stomach and that his body, rather than being shown or would be returned until decomposition had rendered useless any autopsy that might be made.

It is believed here by important men that President Wilson regards intervention as inevitable and is leaning backward in his efforts to preserve peace until that great step must be taken. British assistance upon action in the Benton case has excited a wave of national humiliation over the willful impudence of the State Department to protect American lives and property in Mexico. The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations was shocked the other day when Secretary Bryan showed a disposition to waive aside many of the protests which are pending upon the State Department from Mexico, on the ground that they came from men who own land in Mexico. According to the impression received by the committee, the only "people" whose interest Mr. Bryan regards as worthy of consideration are those who own nothing.

The State Department has shown unusual sensitiveness over the report that Admiral Fletcher had telegraphed for permission to send a thousand marines to Mexico City to protect the embassy. It is once issued a technical denial which said nothing but the facts were explained later by President Wilson, who said that at the request of the State Department, Admiral Fletcher had sent on a minute description of local conditions but had made no recommendation. The President understands also that the charge of "Shanghaiing" does not think it necessary to send a large force of marines to the capital. This attitude is wholly explicable, for such a move upon international law, including President Wilson himself, would be the sending of more than a hundred of marines to Mexico City would be actual armed intervention and would be so resented by Huerta.

The President is understood also to feel that any movement of troops, even a searching squad across the Texas border would constitute intervention, but his attitude on this phase of the situation has proved puzzling. It is pointed out that the Administration recognizes no government at all as existing in Mexico and that it is cautious, therefore, to assume that the rebels would be foolish enough to risk a quarrel with the United States over a minor incident when their sole hope rests upon remaining friendly with the Wilson Administration. Huerta is in no position to resist an American demonstration against the rebels, it is said, and would chuck only "people" whose interest Mr. Bryan

The point of this criticism, as stated by those who make it, is that American prestige is suffering terribly throughout the world by the refusal of the State Department to stop outrages upon Americans in Mexico. A little firmer hand could be played by the United States. It is urged, with a view to teaching the rebels, who are the chief offenders against the Americans, a lesson, if intervention followed it they would have a much to rest upon that would command some respect throughout the country, whereas if it comes as only the dragged tail of a futile policy of watchful waiting, it can shed no glory upon American arms or administration. The Senate, or some of its members, are reported as determined to bring the Mexican question out into the open at a very early day. It is known in the Senate that the Wilson Cabinet is split up over the Mexican policy and that the dreamers Bryan and Lodge have lost the confidence not only of the Cabinet members, but also of the Senate. They can see nothing ahead but war, and although it cannot honestly be said that any important influence in Washington desires war with Mexico it is true that the pacification of the northern states of Mexico will be demanded on the floor of the Senate, even though it leads to armed conflict with the whole republic.

The Administration is minimizing the risk coming up from Mexico that the five northern states desire independence of Huerta and the southern provinces, even if a United States protectorate in that territory is necessary to guarantee stability, but these stories have an actual basis and they may be remembered a little later in the history of the Mexican rebellion. They have been given their greatest color by the failure, if not unwillingness, of Villa to follow up his victory at Juarez with an attack upon the cities further south now held by the Federal troops. The rebels are living off the country just as Huerta is, nor is it believed that they are receiving any important financial assistance outside Mexico. In most respects the positions of Villa and Huerta are identical. Neither has cared to push the fighting beyond a certain zone. Neither owes his authority to anything but blood, and neither has any military backing except such as he can command for himself by force. Both are disaffected rulers to American sentiment, and both are embracing themselves and their followers as rapidly as they can, through the depredations of armies inspired by no patriotic sentiment and which would melt away like snow if their privileges of loot and outrage were taken away. President Wilson has staked his whole game on the man, Poncho Villa, and has now run into a quarrel with this bandit which has uncovered his true character to the gaze of the American people and provoked a burst of anger in England which may break its bonds, when the bill refusing free tolls to American ships passing through the Panama Canal becomes law.

SENATE WILL FAVOR THE LITERACY TEST

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Senate Immigration Committee planned today to complete its consideration of the Burnett bill, as it passed the House, next week, and to report it to the Senate.

Though the committee has not voted definitely on the question of retaining the literacy question in the bill, the majority favor it and the final vote on the provision is expected to carry.

In the matter of the protest from the Italian Government against the provision, directing United States medical officers and mariners to board immigrant ships at foreign ports, members of the committee hold that no invasion of the rights of any foreign Nation is involved. Such officers would board ships only by order of the Secretary of Labor, and they are given no authority whatever on board. They would be directed only to mingle with immigrants and to keep watch during the voyage and to make report of conditions on arrival in this country. It is probable the provision will be left in the bill, though its

DENIES THAT THE NAVY IS IDLE

Asst. Sec. Roosevelt Tells What Fleet is Doing--The Great Need of a Battle Fleet.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant Secretary of the Navy, has written an article for the Scientific American, to appear tomorrow, in refutation of a remark of "a certain person of some prominence" who has said that the American Navy is an organization of highly paid idleness. Not content with proving the contrary by detailing the activities in which the Navy is constantly employed, Mr. Roosevelt seizes the opportunity to tell the public what he thinks about the necessity for modern battleships. He pictures the situation should there be a war between this country and any other, and he tells the American people what in such an event would happen to its commerce, its insular possessions and its dignity. The article begins:

"A certain person of some prominence in public life, who should have known better, recently referred to the American Navy as an organization of highly paid idleness. In regard to the pay of the Navy it is sufficient to dismiss the allegation with the statement that the average pay of all the officers and enlisted men in the service amounts to just $618 per annum. But the use of the word 'idleness' leads me to fear that there must be some people who are not familiar with the manner of occupation of the ships and men in the service in times of peace."

Mr. Roosevelt then recounts the activities of the navy by describing a map of the world which hangs in his office and shows each day the exact location of every one of the battleships, cruisers, destroyers, tenders, etc., and by explaining just why each ship is where it is and what might happen if it were not there. His conclusions follow:

"But there are other facts to be deduced also—facts based on the premise that the primary object of the navy is to be ready in the unfortunate event of war. To this end all others must of necessity be subordinate. Just as the police force of a city is of little value in stopping the invasion of a country by a foreign force, so the work of the gunboats and surveying ships and obsolete but-less ships in time of peace would count for little against the enemy's fleet in time of war. The day is past when it was possible to build, equip and man a fleet in six months. Now a battleship which takes three years to build cannot be taken into an engagement by any kind of officers or any kind of a crew. Many months of thinking, job and practice are necessary to efficient maneuvering and straight, quick shooting.

"A naval war of today would not see single ships in action, nor would it see a fleet divided and scattered along the two coasts of the continental United States. A glance at the map shows a part of our activities and interests outside of this continental portion in time of peace. Women are then in time of war be content like the turtle to withdraw into our own shell and see an enemy supersede us in every outlying part, usurp our commerce and destroy our influence as a nation throughout the world? Yet this will happen just as surely as we can be sure of anything human if an enemy of the United States obtains control of the seas. And that control is dependent absolutely on one thing—the preponderant efficiency of the battle fleet.

"A thousand gunboats, a thousand harbor defense submarines or monitors would avail us nothing. Invasion is not what this country has to fear. If the American people are willing to be relegated to the position of a nation unimportant in the great affairs of the world, without influence in commerce or in the extension of peaceful civilization and high ideals throughout the world, they need no battleships, they need not fear the loss of control of the seas. The efforts of all must be concentrated, as far as possible, on the preparation of the battle fleet. That fleet must at all costs be kept together, for division of forces is fatal; it must be drilled and maneuvered; it must spend good money for target practice; it must contain the best material and the latest devices, and it must in its personnel typify the highest ideals, the greatest efficiency of American citizenship."

TAFT URGED THAT COURTS BE REGULATED

Washington, Feb. 27.—Former President Taft appeared today before the House Committee on Judiciary, in the capacity of president of the American Bar Association, and, with several other members of the association, advocated passage of the Clayton bill to authorize the Supreme Court to prescribe forms and rules of procedure for Federal courts on the common-law side. "All men delight in the exercise of patronage," said Mr. Taft, "of course," he added, with a smile, "on this matter I am speaking to the Republicans on your committee, not the Democrats." The sally brought a ripple of laughter from the committee.

One of the troubles with the appointments the judges, Mr. Taft said, was that the temptation was strong to build up about themselves "judicial families." Lawyers knew, he said, that it was often a dangerous thing to make any charge against a court clerk before the judge who had appointed him. That temptation could be removed by Congress, Mr. Taft insisted, and the courts as they are now constituted, could be vindicated without resort to the recall, which he believed harmful. He thought appointments of receivers by Federal judges should be made from a list furnished by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. Taft added that at some later date it probably would be advisable to provide for the examination of the rules of procedure by a commission, with a view to harmonizing and administering the two sides of Federal court work. For the present he thought the authorization contained in the bill was all that should be attempted.

Alton B. Parker also dwelt upon the need of uniformity. Mr. Parker said there was an ideal, in view, as suggested by Mr. Taft, of complete uniformity in procedure throughout the Federal courts, and perhaps even the state courts at some time. Senator Root declared legislatures had built up under the pressure of individual interests codes of procedure which prevented the courts from administering justice. His own state he said, was the worst offender in that respect, and that there a man might be compelled to try twenty suits to reach a decision on a simple claim. Corps of "acute, adroit code lawyers" had grown up under this abuse, he said, who were able to clog the wheels of justice with technical evasions. The man of small means soon became discouraged or even ruined, he said, while men of wealth secured immunity from being brought to justice.

Doan's Kidney Pills procured from Philbrick's drug store, came to my relief and I have had practically no trouble from my kidneys since using them. ## WILL REACH AN AGREEMENT BUT NOT YET

Washington, Feb. 27.—Little credence may be placed in the suggestion that negotiations between the New Haven and the Department of Justice over the proposed settlement under the antitrust act have reached such an impasse that the Government will be compelled to bring suit for dissolution of the railroad system. Men most familiar with this situation feel certain that agreement will be reached, if for no other reason than that failure to agree would throw the Boston and Maine into the hands of a receiver and possibly precipitate state ownership.

It is conceivable that politics may enter a little into the controversy over the period of the proposed trust. Attorney General McReynolds and Governor Walsh are eager alike to dispose of this great question during their terms of office, while Chairman Elliott and his associates are convinced that a grave injustice would be done to stockholders should the Boston and Maine be compelled to market its securities within five years. This is the sticking point in the negotiations. The railroad management feels also that once the trustees are appointed they should be given a free hand to manage the property for the best interests of all concerned, without fear of state interference until their task is finished.

There is no responsible possibility of a final disagreement over the selection of the Boston and Maine trustees, even though Mr. Elliott may prefer some men to others. Men who have seen the list of about twenty names suggested are willing to say that they would entrust the management of their own estates to any five of the twenty that might be picked. Chairman Elliott left Washington for Boston last night but the attorneys are busy again today at the Department of Justice.

UNCLE SAM'S TOY FACTORY

Where Miniature Warships Are Made.
—Tiny Fittings Regulated Under a Watchman's Glass

Perhaps you don't know it, but Uncle Sam runs a toy factory that devotes all its time to turning out miniature ships, models of the various craft which constitute our battle line. In the halls of the navy department at Washington and in the office of the secretary these models are to be found in growing numbers year by year and the day will come when the public will awaken to their historical value. Possibly then they will be arranged somewhere, perhaps in the National Museum after the fashion followed at the Louvre in Paris and the South Kensington Museum in London, so that the casual sightseer can see at a glance just how rapid has been the evolution in naval architecture since we broke away from the floating castles of wood and turned to walls of steel to safeguard the nation from an overseas foe.

In the days gone by a half model of every ship was made for the naval construction that he might get a better idea of the hull he had planned and feel with sympathetic fingers the sweetness of the lines that made for speed and seaworthiness.

When the new navy was born, the half model became more necessary than ever because upon its polished body was drawn every plate of the outer hull and by these areas were determined the shape and size of the metallic skin before the big elements of the steel shell were rolled and cut.

SENATOR GALLINGER MAKES STATEMENT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—The attention of Senator Gallinger was today called to a recent statement in the Manchester Union, by its Washington correspondent regarding the retirement or reelection of certain New England senators, including Senators Gallinger, Dillingham and Brandegee. This communication states that President Wilson will "suggest" the Democratic candidates for the U. S. senate, and that neither Senator Gallinger, Dillingham nor Brandegee will be candidates.

In commenting on the Union's statement Senator Gallinger said: "I have not authorized the Washington correspondent of the Manchester Union, speak for me, as to whether or not I shall be a candidate for reelection; that matter I will determine for myself at the proper time. Certainly I shall not be deterred from entering the contest by any conference the Democrats may hold nor any interference on the part of the president of the United States, who it seems, is going to select the candidates for the senate in those New England states where elections are to be held next November. I will take this opportunity to add that all the information that comes to me from New Hampshire, some of it from Democratic sources, clearly indicates that I can easily see a reelection if I concluded to be a candidate." Senator Gallinger further stated that he knows that Senator Brandegee of Connecticut will be a candidate for reelection and beyond a doubt will be successful. The same is true of Senator Dillingham of Vermont, whose reputation and ability to his public duties will not be lost sight of by the thinking people of his state.

Woodworking is only the basic craft involved. The cunning of the watchmaker is most in demand for the major part of the various features are formed of metal and these are wrought with the utmost care. There are scarcely more than a half dozen artisans in the ship model factory. They are men who have become expert by long practice and association with the requirements of this particular department of model making. For years all the small boats were made by the old fellow, and day after day, month in and month out, he virtually carved these toys. He had been a small boat builder and knew just how a well shaped outline of a cutter or a whalboat should look and to this knowledge he applied the cunning of the traditional Yankee whittler. With few tools besides his keen and rusty jackknife he worked away smilingly as he turned the blocks of wood into little boats with all of their regulation outfit. He represented by a quarter of an inch in thickness the possibility of a ship's lines.

You don't have to be a technical turn of mind to realize that these so-called toy-ships would scarcely serve their purpose if any one and all of them were not made to a single scale. That is, a foot in the big craft is represented by a quarter of an inch in the model, and this standard has fortunately prevailed since the model of the first of our new navy was made. Thus the miniature battle craft among themselves show the same difference in size to be found in the counterparts in the real fleet.

The hulls of the models are made of wood that has been seasoned for years. This is the finest of white pine, and a veritable delight to the woodworker. The models are not made by a single piece, but of numerous planks carefully planed and glued together under pressure, each plank being selected with a critical eye. Before these plans are bound together each of them has marked up its upper surface the shape of the ship, as it would be if the vessel were sliced lengthwise at that level above the keel, the paint work upon the regular fighting ship. He carries this matter of accuracy so far that the lines he draws upon the deck representing the planking are faithful in every particular to the seams of the full sized decks. Every joint is reproduced even in the manner in which the planks are notched when reaching the strakes that run around turret bases or the rails—New York Sun.

AFTER MANCHESTER COAL DEALERS FOR SHORT WEIGHT

Manchester, Feb. 2.—An order to protect the buyer against shortweighting in purchasing coal City Sealer John B. Piller has shown the amount of coal that may be contained in bins of different measurement. This he has proven will prevent the dealers from giving short measure to their customers.

Some of the best known coal dealers in the city were trapped by the sealer who stopped their wagons on route to customers, loaded the drivers to the nearest scales and weighed the contents of their wagons. Mr. Piller has not given out the names of the dealers, but from rumors current it would seem something of a sensation were an authentic list to be published.

To guide the consumer in measuring the amount of coal delivered to him Mr. Piller says he should keep in mind that the amount of coal in a cubic foot of space is 55.1 pounds. If the length, breadth and the depth of the bin are multiplied it will give the cubic contents of the bin; as, for instance, a bin to hold a ton of coal would have to contain 34.4 cubic feet, and its measurements would be equivalent to 3 feet, 3 inches in width, length and depth.

To hold two tons of coal the bin would have to have 68.8 cubic feet, equivalent to measuring 4 feet 1-2 inches on each side. For a greater amount of coal it is simply necessary to carry out the multiplication.

The sealer found that ten out of twenty-four coal dealers of the city had short-weighted their customers. One was threatened with prosecution, but he finally prevailed upon the city sealer to give him another chance. It is the first application of the new law passed at the last session of the legislature giving the sealer power to stop wagons on the street and weigh their contents, to determine if accurate weight is being given.

A FINE SEASHORE HOME

Extensive Improvements Being Made to Kelp Rock Mansion at New Castle, Recently Purchased
by Col. W. F. Hite

Extensive improvements are being made to the Kelp Rock mansion at New Castle, recently purchased by Colonel William F. Hite of Huntington, West Virginia, from the estate of Mrs. Emily Niles. The house and surroundings are the finest along the Atlantic coast, saying nothing of the harbor and beautiful ocean view. The exterior of the house is constructed from the rocks from the shore and was built about fifteen years ago. The stone tower which is about 75 feet high is a landmark for the mariner approaching Portsmouth harbor. The interior of the house consists of twenty rooms with a large music room, all of which have been painted white with a flat finish, as well as papered by the well known firm of E.
A. Gray and Company of Portsmouth.

The property faces the Atlantic ocean and commands a fine view of Portsmouth Harbor and the coast of Maine. A sea wall of one thousand feet extends from the estate to the Fort Stark and to the estate of S. E.
Barrett.

The property includes about eight acres of land, one large stone stable, chaffeur's cottage, help's cottage and bath house.

Approaching Kelp Rock Mansion
from the Wentworth House Road, one enters Wild Rose Lane which is very picturesque. The entrance to the grounds is adorned by two stone columns, surmounted by electric lights. Two massive iron gates guard the approach.

Colonel Hite was certainly fortunate in securing such a handsome place for a summer home.
